About The Everglades Foundation

Since 1993, The Everglades Foundation has been the leading champion for the restoration of America's Everglades. Our team provides bipartisan solutions backed by sound scientific research led by an in-house team of world-class Ph.D. scientists. Through science, advocacy, and education, The Everglades Foundation is devoted to restoring and protecting America's Everglades for future generations.

The Foundation works tirelessly to secure the state and federal funding needed to modernize South Florida's outdated water infrastructure, restore the flow of desperately needed clean water south to the Everglades, and reduce harmful discharges of toxic algae and other pollutants to the coastal estuaries. We hope you will support this effort, propelling the science, advocacy, and education that are restoring and protecting the Everglades. Together, we can ensure the largest ecosystem restoration project on the planet is completed in our lifetime.
